

Girls with a mission

...AND THEY'RE ON A CURFEW

A STRICTLY regimented and chaperoned group of schoolgirls will keep Bulcock Beach, Caloundra, safe for children and adults this summer.

Bulcock Beach, facing Pumicentore Pass, is a popular still-water bathing area.

On December 17, a new women's life-saving club, Nordics, will start week-end patrols.

Nordics' members are mostly secondary school girls drawn from the Royal Life-saving Club.

As evidence of their dedication, the girls are willing to be chaperoned, accept a limited amount of pocket money and a 10 p.m. curfew.

THE RULES

They will be under the control of a parents' committee and while spending holiday periods at the club, will be allowed out only two nights a week.

Parents have drawn
